

Decision-making aid for choosing a suitable electric motor

The performance profile of the application in question is known. The performance class and motor type have been pre-selected. It remains to be seen whether the motor complies with the relevant energy efficiency requirements and which solution would be best.

